NO ARRESTS YET MADE IN BURDICK MURDER CASE

EDWIN L. BURDICK X X MRS. EDWIN L. BURDICK X

After admitting that all their clews in the Burdick murder mystery had failed, the Burfalo police now say they have discovered a trail which hope will lead them to a solution of the problem. They have discovered a cabman who claims to have driven a young woman to the corner of Ashland avenue and Sumner street a short time prior to the hour in which the murder is supposed to have been com mitted. She carried a satchel, and after leaving the cab walked rapidly toward the Burdick house. The police are investigating some of the women who worked in Burdick's family, hoping that something may turn up in that direction to throw some light on tne crime.

With the exception of this latest clew the mystery is as far from solution as ever.

The one woman who has been under strong suspicion, and who has become known as the "police suspect," is be-lieved by some of the officials of the police department to be guiltless. Mrs. Seth T. Paine is no longer under survelliance, and the police admit that she had no connection with the crime.

Some of the officials do not pretend to have any clear idea who the mur they simply say that the right trail has not been struck. The probability of an immediate arrest being made in the case grows slighter every hour.

Other officials are as sanguine as ever that an arrest will be made. They will not predict when. It may be made at any moment; it may not be for a Among those who remain unshaken in this belief is Supt. Bull. He declared that he suspected the same person now as being the slayer of Burdick as he did earlier in the week and that an arrest was only a matter of time.

The police have withdrawn from Mrs. Paine and her house in Elmwood avenue the surveillance that has been maintained since the day after the murder. Restraint is no longer exerclsed over her movements, and she may even leave the city if she wishes

Patrolman August Meyer, the police man who stood at the corner of Ash land avenue and Bryant street and saw the mysterious unknown woman on her lonely way, confronted Mrs Paine and scrutinized her.

"I cannot say that she is the wom an," he replied to his superiors. comparative descritpion counts for anything, he might have added that he could say she was not the woman, for the woman he described weighed at least 150 pounds, while Mrs. Paine, will not scale within twenty pounds of

The police are sorely disappointed by the fallure of their effort to identify the lone woman. They had hoped to establish who she was, where she lived, and where she had been., So far as the law is concerned, she is unknown, unidentified, unrecognized, and as mysterious as ever-merely a figure who emerged from the darkness near the Burdick home about the hour when Burdick was murdered.

An interesting development is the statement made by Chief of Detectives Cusack that the golf stick theory had been abandoned. He is satisfied that the putter was not used in committing the murder. He also expressed the conviction that the weapon used was carried away from the house. He is sure of that, but he is not so sure that it was carried to the house of the murderer. Neither will he venture an opinion as to the kind of weapon

An order has been sent out directing that the sewers in the vicinity of the Burdick house be searched. The police hope to find in them the weapon they seek. They have some idea that it was a bottle, the cocktail bottle which Burdick bought on his way home the day before his death and placed in a sideboard. This bottle has never been found, although Burdick did not leave his house after he brought it in. The wrapper was found in a garbage can in the rear of the house three days after the murder. That has been one of the little mysteries which the police never have been able to explain.

SENATOR DEPEW'S FINE COOK

New York Statesman Said to Have Jewel. Senator Depew has in his employ an interesting personage to whom he pays a salary of $100 a month and who ranks first among the employes of the Corcoran house. This personage is a woman, a graduate of several cooking schools and a past mis tress in the art of political economy. She ranks ahead of the housekeeper and is really the major-dome of the kitchen and pantries. Senator Depew prizes her services beyond those of any other person connected with the Corcoran house, it is a fact that since this woman took into her hands the reins of domestic government not one of Senator Depew's famous dinners or suppers has been mismanaged by a professional caterer. At the be ginning of the season the senator deposited $6,000 to the manager's credit, requesting her to draw upon it and produce such results as would make famous the hospitalities of the historic house. She has succeeded.

The Humor of Soldiers.

During the siege of Ostend during Queen Elizabeth's reign, which Francis Vere was defending for the English against the Spaniards, a soldier having bought a loaf of bread was holding it up in a boasting way when a shot took the uppermost half leaving the other in the soldier's hand, who, finding that he had receiv ed no hurt, said: "It was a fair conditioned bullet, for it has left the better half behind." This man was surely direct ancestor to the Tommy. who, when a bullet grazed the top of his head in the recent war in South Africa, exclaimed, "Mates, I've just 'ad a free 'air cut."

Are Short on Scripture On the last legislative day in the house several congressmen quoted scripture while making short speeches, some of them displaying woeful lack of accuracy. Mr. Vandiver of Missouri commented on these misquotations, and by way of burlesque recalled this alleged extract; "And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall est straw like an ox." Prolonged laughter and the fall of the hammer cut Mr. Vandiver off from further elucidation, Knew All But One Thing.

The professor of mechanics at an English college once gave a lecture upon the locomotive, and was particularly struck by the absorption of one juvenile listener. He spoke to the stadent after the lecture, and asked him: Well, I suppose you understand all was the reply, "all but one thing." "And what is that?" said the professor kindly. "I can't make out what makes the locomotive move without borses." -Etray Stories

ASKING QUESTIONS.

An Inquiry Changed a Man's Whole Life.

When you get a man to recognize that his bad feelings come from improper food and that he can get well by using scientific food, the battle is half won. One of New York's business men says: "I was troubled for a long time with indigestion, headache, and stomach trouble, and had taken various medicines, but with no good results. I concluded to see how a change of food would affect me. I never cared particularly for cereals of any kind, but ate meat and pastry continually and drank

"I found on inquiring that Grape-Nuts were highly spoken of, and de cided to give them a trial. To say I was surprised at the result would not begin to do justice to my feelings. My headaches left me, my brain became clearer and active, my attacks of indigestion grew fewer and fewer until they ceased entirely, and where I once went home tired, fagged out and indisposed to any exertion whatever, I now found a different state of affairs.

"My color was good, my muscles strong and firm and fully equal to anything I asked of them, instead of soft and flabby. I live two miles from my business and walk it daily ack and forth, if the weather per mits. I am 55 years old and feel as can ride 70 miles a day on a bicycle without feeling any bad results."
